Editors' word

Loneliness is something many of us will feel from time to time. It is particularly prevalent in the winter months when short days and poor weather make it difficult to get out and about. The festive season can further highlight our isolation as it can feel as if everyone else is busy.

The Bank Workers Charity has recently partnered with Age UK to offer a friendship telephone service to combat loneliness. A former bank worker tells us how she has found meaningful connections through conversation on page 5.

There's a fantastic letter from Denise Penson (née Greaves) recalling her experiences at Eastwood branch, 'Are you all right, my duck?' gave us a giggle. We've also had some lovely letters, inspired by the correspondence we published in the previous edition of connection. Keep them coming! Letters are on pages 11-13.

Group Archives reveal all in their piece on the ledgers of the rich and famous on pages 14 and 15.

Thank you to everyone who has contributed to this edition. Season's greetings and all the very best for the New Year from the connection editorial team.

Best wishes,

Lynn Eccles, Gareth Orr
and Julie Midgley

Barclays' 2024 half-year financial results

With Group income of £13.3bn, profit before tax increased to £4.2bn. The financial update to 30 June 2024 showed the Group generated 2.9p of dividends per share and 18.6p of earnings per share.

Group CEO C.S. Venkatakrishnan (Venkat) said: "We are making good progress on our three-year plan to improve Barclays' operational and financial performance, generating higher returns and attractive shareholder distributions. The new plan aims to make Barclays simpler, better and more balanced."

Venkat added: "We had a Return on Tangible Equity (RoTE) of 11.1% in the first half of 2024, which puts us on track for our target of greater than 10% RoTE in 2024. We completed the sale of the performing Italian mortgage book, announced the sale of the German consumer finance business, and completed the acquisition of Tesco Bank in November 2024. We announced a share buyback of up to £750m, with total capital distributions to shareholders of £1.2bn in respect of the first half of 2024."

"We are making good progress on our three-year plan..."

Key takeaways from the announcement included:

Dividend per share

2.9p

Group income

£13.3bn

Group profit before tax

£4.2bn

Barclays' military outreach programme

Barclays is making significant strides in supporting military personnel and veterans through its military outreach programme. The initiative aims to unlock career potential for those who have served in the armed forces, providing them with opportunities to transition into civilian life seamlessly.

Barclays is committed to helping military personnel find fulfilling careers. The programme offers a range of support services, including mentoring, skills training, and networking opportunities. By leveraging its extensive network and resources, the Barclays Group aims to bridge the gap between military and civilian employment.

Alistair Currie, Head of Military Talent at Barclays, recently shed light on the Group's involvement in supporting the military community, emphasising the success of the Military Work Experience Programme, which offers veterans the chance to gain valuable work experience and explore potential career paths within Barclays. The programme has been well-received, with participants praising Barclays' commitment to their professional development.

Furthermore, Barclays has been actively involved in commemorating significant military events. Mr Currie acknowledged the importance of D-Day and the sacrifices made by those who fought in the Second World War. He also pointed out the Group's dedication to honouring the legacy of veterans and supporting their career aspirations. You can read more about the impact of the Second World War on Barclays' staff in Issue 84 of connection, including the creation of the Barclays' Staff War Fund.

Barclays' military outreach programme continues to make a positive impact on the lives of military personnel and veterans. By providing tailored support and career prospects, the Group is helping unlock the potential of those who have served their country with its commitment to recognising and honouring the sacrifices made by the armed forces.

Finding support and comfort through conversation

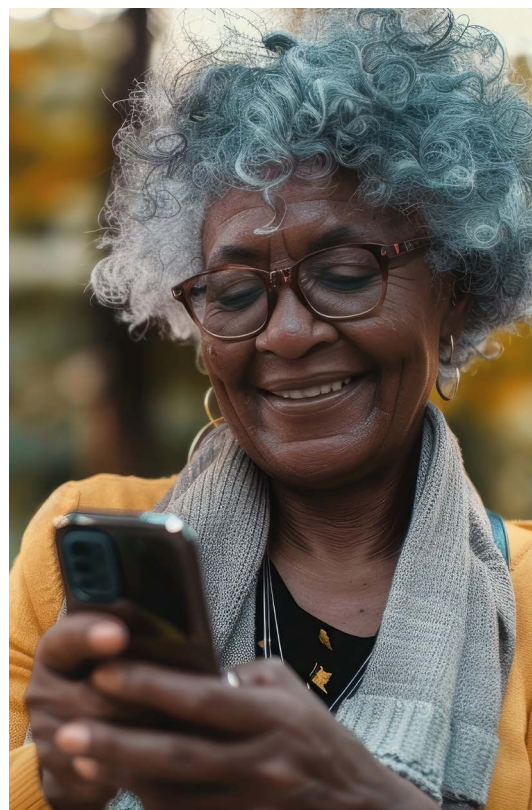

After the sudden loss of her husband in 2000, Elaine* faced the daunting task of adjusting to life as a widow. With the support of her loved ones, she worked hard to keep her mind and body active. However, a series of health issues over the years brought about significant stress and financial concerns.

Having worked in a bank for 11 years, Elaine turned to the Bank Workers Charity for help. To her relief, they were able to assist her. During a conversation with a client adviser, Elaine mentioned that her cooker had broken, and the charity provided a grant for a new one.

Elaine cherished the opportunity to chat, especially since her health issues limited her ability to socialise outside her home. Recognising this, the charity's client adviser suggested she join their friendship telephone service, in partnership with Age UK.

The friendship telephone service aims to combat loneliness by fostering meaningful connections through conversation. Sometimes, all it takes is a friendly chat. Each call, led by a trained facilitator, lasts approximately one hour and happens at the same time each week. Groups consist of a maximum of six members, creating a safe and welcoming environment. Registering for the service is simple, and once you've registered, all you need to do is answer the phone at the agreed time.

Elaine expressed her gratitude for the weekly calls, stating, "I eagerly anticipate each conversation. It's wonderful to have someone to talk to, reminiscing and sharing stories about my banking days. Many people, like me, struggle to get out and about. These calls prevent loneliness and bring people together."

If you're a Barclays pensioner or the partner of one, you can register your interest in the friendship telephone service by completing the online form at bwcharity.org.uk/resource/friendship-telephone-service

For any enquiries or help with the form, or to explore other ways the charity can help, please call their free and confidential helpline on 0800 0234 834. The helpline is available Monday to Friday from 9.00am to 5.00pm (except Bank Holidays). Alternatively, find out more by visiting bwcharity.org.uk

Bournemouth Pensioners' Club

50th birthday afternoon tea

The Bournemouth Club recently celebrated its momentous 50th birthday with a grand afternoon tea at The Italian Villa in Compton Acres.

Over 125 members and their partners joined in the festivities, creating an atmosphere of joy and celebration.

Club Chair Peter Cantwell delivered a heartfelt speech, reminiscing about the early days by reading from old Club Minutes and expressing gratitude to the original Committee members for their foundational contributions. The event was filled with laughter, camaraderie, and delectable treats, capturing the essence of the Club's enduring spirit.

Photographs were taken to immortalise the occasion, with Peter proudly sporting his vibrant yellow shirt. As the afternoon concluded, there was a sense of pride and excitement for the Club's future. We look forward to our next chapter, building upon 50 years of cherished memories and fostering lasting friendships.

Long weekend in King's Lynn

The Bournemouth Club recently enjoyed an unforgettable long weekend in King's Lynn. Led by Club Chair Peter Cantwell, the group of 33 members explored the area's fascinating history and attractions.

A highlight was their visit to the royal retreat of Sandringham, immersing themselves in its regal ambience. They also spent time at the King's Lynn waterfront, explored Lincoln's iconic landmarks, and embarked on a coach tour of the North Norfolk coast, adding to their adventure by making pit stops in Cambridge and Banbury.

Peter expressed gratitude for the unforgettable experience, with members returning home filled with joy and lasting memories.

Visit to the National Stud at Newmarket

On 10 May 2024, the LEPC visited Newmarket. Divided into two groups, Club members were fortunate to have two exceptional guides, Larry and Malcolm, who made their experience incredibly fascinating.

London Eastern Pensioners' Club

Their vast knowledge was truly impressive, and they even managed to inject humour into their explanations of the intricate process behind creating the next champion racehorse. Attendees were enthralled as their guides described how the mare wears oversized slippers to protect the stallion from any accidental harm, as even a slight kick to the leg can have detrimental consequences. It was an absolutely marvellous day for the Club, filled with excitement and enjoyment.

One of the groups had the privilege of standing outside the stable of the renowned Stradivarius, a highly acclaimed racehorse and stallion. The stable was truly impressive; spacious and complete with central heating and air conditioning for utmost comfort. However, to their amusement, there was one notable absence – no TV in sight.

A stroll through London's legal landmarks

Under the guidance of Peter Goodfellow, the Club embarked on a captivating journey through the streets of London.

They explored several notable landmarks on their walk, such as the Royal Courts of Justice, Inner and Middle Temple, Gray's and Lincoln's Inns of Court, and the Inns of Chancery.

AGM lunch

The AGM of the LEPC in February 2024 was a resounding success, and the subsequent lunch was equally delightful.

The attendees were treated to a delectable spread, including the crowd-favourite Spotted Dick with custard. The event was a perfect opportunity for members to socialise and enjoy each other's company. Maureen Ballard captured some memorable moments, including the picture below.

American cemetery visit

On Thursday 9 May, the LEPC paid a visit to the Cambridge American Cemetery and Memorial.

The cemetery is a meticulously maintained burial ground that holds the remains of 3,800 individuals. At the end of the Second World War, a portion of them were repatriated to their home countries. Tragically, 900 lives were lost to meningitis during their training here, as penicillin was not yet embraced by the USA. Additionally, some succumbed to local traffic accidents and common illnesses, although the majority of those interred here are veterans of the Second World War.

Resembling the iconic Lincoln Memorial Reflecting Pool in Washington D.C., a picturesque scene features serene waterways that gracefully guide visitors towards the tranquil Chapel of Rest. Standing as the longest memorial wall in Europe, a solemn tribute serves as a poignant reminder for all the soldiers who never made it back home. Each name etched on the wall bears witness to their sacrifice, accompanied only by their rank and state of birth. It is a deeply sombre sight, evoking a profound sense of sadness.

Within the Chapel of Rest, there lies an exquisite altar adorned with breathtaking mosaics.

The day continued with a relaxing retail therapy session at a local garden centre in Coton. As the day drew to a close, Club members embarked on their journey back to Essex via the M11.

British Legion poppy factory visit

Unable to travel to France for any D-Day remembrances, we had made prior arrangements to visit the British Legion poppy factory in Richmond, London.

The hosts were exceptional, the weather was fantastic, and there were moments of heartfelt emotion as we remembered all those who bravely went to Normandy on 6 June 1944.

Kent Pensioners' Club

AGM lunch April 2024

The 24th Annual General Meeting of the Barclays Kent Pensioners' Club was held on 25 April at the serene Canterbury Cricket Ground.

It was a day filled with mixed emotions as 74 of us gathered to enjoy a delightful meal, overlooking the picturesque green fields of Kent County Cricket Club. However, the joyous atmosphere was tinged with sadness as Chairman John Reid shared the heartbreaking news of the sudden passing of his Co-Chairman, John Hendry, on 19 February. In a touching tribute, John read out a heartfelt poem written by John's 12-year-old granddaughter for his funeral, which took place on 3 April.

*You meant so much. You were special and that's no lie
You made me happy on the sad days
And kept me going, that's why*

*You meant so much,
Your laugh was like music to hear,
I would give absolutely anything to have you near*

*You meant so much,
Please stay near as we send you off to heaven
and celebrate your happy life.*

Goodbye Grandad, see you again

We then announced the election of Michael Skinner as the Vice Chairman, Mary Moss as the Assistant Secretary, and David Fawcner as the Assistant Treasurer. These dedicated individuals will provide invaluable support to our hardworking Secretary/Treasurer, Su McGowan. In recognition of her tireless efforts and exceptional work, Su was presented with a beautiful bouquet of flowers. To conclude the meeting on a cheerful note, we held our traditional raffle, adding an element of excitement and camaraderie to the gathering.

Oxford Spread Eagle Club

Meeting the Amazing Animals

Karl Bushell and more than 30 members of the Club recently embarked on an unforgettable visit to Amazing Animals in Heythrop, Oxfordshire.

This remarkable private zoo specialises in providing animals for television, film, and advertisements, and boasts a dedicated staff who ensure the wellbeing of all the animals under their care.

Their adventure began with delightful encounters with penguins and kangaroos, followed by an introduction to a lively group of squirrel monkeys. These mischievous creatures brought laughter and joy as they playfully leaped from head to head of the members.

They were then treated to a captivating display by Vera, the resident raven, who showcased remarkable intelligence by collecting items like coins, cans, and hoops from members and placing them precisely in designated containers. Vera also impressed the group by skilfully stacking cups in the correct order.

One of the highlights of their visit was the opportunity to meet two majestic tigers up close, albeit safely behind a fence, and even feed them. The experience left the group in awe of these magnificent creatures.

The journey continued as they encountered various reptiles, lions, leopards, wolves, and other smaller mammals. The excitement peaked when they met the three resident zebras and had the pleasure of giving them their treats.

The entire group had an incredible day, filled with unforgettable moments. The group extend their heartfelt thanks to the staff at Amazing Animals for their exceptional care during the visit and for fostering a remarkable bond with their animal residents.

Southampton Club summer trip to Syon House

Southampton District Spread Eagle Club

More than 40 pensioners from the Southampton District Spread Eagle Club went on their annual summer trip to Syon House, the historic London residence of the 12th Duke of Northumberland.

The group enjoyed hot weather and guided tours of the grand classical house, which has been the Percy family's home for over 400 years.

Situated by the River Thames, the site originally housed a medieval abbey until its dissolution by King Henry VIII in 1539. Acquired by the Percy family in 1594, Syon House has been restored to its original colours, showcasing magnificent classical rooms designed by Robert Adam.

The trip also included leisure time in the landscaped gardens and the impressive Great Conservatory, offering a cool retreat after lunch at the garden centre restaurant.

The small branch experience

When I was interviewed by Barclays in Nottingham back in 1961, I was asked, "If you are successful, where would you like to work?" Without hesitation, I replied, "In the city centre," as I loved the vibrant buzz of a bustling city.

As it turned out, I was successful, but my assigned branch was in Eastwood – a small mining town known mainly for D.H. Lawrence. Initially, I was a bit disappointed, but it quickly became one of the best experiences of my career. The branch was small, with just six staff members. Our manager, who resembled Captain Mainwaring from Dad's Army, was a true character – a gentleman farmer and a Justice of the Peace. We rarely saw him during the day, as after opening the post and reassuring us that "there was nothing in the post to worry you," he would disappear to fulfil his duties as Chairman of the Juvenile Court in Nottingham eight miles away.

This set-up presented its own challenges, especially since we had two sub-branches to manage. Each day, one of the staff members, along with an ex-miner guard, would take the necessary notes and coins by bus to one of these sub-branches, where they worked four days a week.

My mornings at the branch began in the cellar, filling the coal bucket for the fire in the manager's office. Next, I would mix the special indelible ink for the ink wells in the banking hall and for posting the hand-ledgers. Blotting paper had to be checked and replaced, especially if it showed traces of the previous day's transactions. Working in a small branch was a great experience, as it required learning a variety of tasks – quite different from the specialised roles in a multi-staffed city branch.

Sending money as an H.V.P. (High Value Packet) to the Post Office was a carefully planned operation. Two staff members were involved: one colleague carried the cash in a suitcase strapped to their wrist, and I accompanied them, always walking closest to the traffic to avoid any surprises. I had a whistle tied around my neck as an alarm. We couldn't vary our route, as that would have been even more dangerous.

I was also given the responsibility to "man" one of the sub-branches alongside my ex-miner guard. The building belonged to the Post Office next door, and being short in stature, I struggled to hand cash over the wide mahogany counter and under the grille.

Special indelible ink, mixed daily

Often, I had to lift myself onto the counter using my elbows, but this would sometimes cause me to accidentally trigger the alarm. The Post Office owner would quickly rush in with a broom, asking, "Are you all right, my duck?"

I have many stories from my time at Eastwood, but perhaps my most notable claim to fame is that on one occasion the money we prepared so carefully to send to London, labelled as "Surplus to Requirements," never made it to its destination. It was stolen in the Great Train Robbery!

Looking back, these years were the happiest of my working life.

Resolving a rounding dispute

Before Barclays acquired Woolwich, I was asked by a colleague to meet with an irate customer who had come into the branch with a complaint.

The gentleman stormed into my office, mortgage statement in hand and jabbed his finger at the balance he owed at the end of the year. He believed that we had unjustly increased the figure by rounding the decimal point up rather than down.

I tried to soothe his frustration, but he was having none of it. As we stood up to part ways, an idea struck me. I reached into my pocket, pulled out some change and put the coins in his hand. "There you go," I said, "that should settle it."

Completely puzzled, but notably calmer, he walked quietly out of the branch and that was the last I ever heard on the matter.

Oxford Area Office's 30-year reunion

The Oxford Area Office closed on 31 March 1994, following a reorganisation that relocated operations to Peterborough. Since then, staff from the former Oxford office have held a reunion every five years to keep the spirit of the team alive.

On 6 April 2024, 35 colleagues and their partners gathered at a local sports club in Oxford for the latest reunion. Attendees came from all over, including Jersey, the Isle of Man and Belfast.

It was a wonderful evening spent catching up with everyone after so many years.

There were people from all three disciplines: taxation, trustee and investment. It was a chance to reflect on the success of the office, with a brilliant team. We were always a very friendly and social team, which made it a joy to work there.

Obviously after all this time we are getting on a bit. So, it was suggested that we don't wait another five years for the next reunion – we might gather again in two years.

Looking forward to next time!

John Davis celebrates 100th birthday

John's life began in Staffordshire, and at the age of 5, he moved to Torquay. At 17, he started his career with Barclays in Paignton, but after about a year, he joined the Royal Air Force on 31 August 1942. Over his 27 years of service as a navigator, John flew in some of the most iconic aircraft of the time, including the Baltimore bomber, the Vulcan, and the Mark II Victor. Although he saw action during the Second World War, he fortunately came through it safely.

By 1955, John had met and married Molley, who brought three young children into their family, and together they had two more, Jill and Simon. Today, John is a proud grandfather with family spread across the globe, from the UK to New Zealand and Canada.

At the age of 45, John left the RAF and returned to Barclays, this time at the Broadway branch in Peterborough. He went on to work at various branches around Peterborough, including the Cash Centre at Broadway, before moving to the Stamford branch. There, he spent some time on the counter before running the Wittering sub-branch until his retirement in 1987.

Kathy Knott, John Davis and Pat Beech

In addition to his work, John has always been passionate about tennis, squash, and gardening – a passion that served him well when he and Molley moved into a new house in Stamford with a garden that required a lot of care.

On behalf of all our members, we extend our heartfelt congratulations to John on reaching such a significant milestone and wish him a very happy and enjoyable 100th birthday.

Memories of a Barclays rugby tournament

I was delighted to see the letter titled “A Rugby Career at Barclays” by John Zimnoch in the Summer 2024 edition, and it inspired me to share my own Barclays story, which also has a rugby twist.

Back in the 1960s (and possibly the '70s as well), the Bank hosted an annual Rugby 7s tournament at the Ealing Sports Ground. I joined Barclays in 1967 at the Witney branch in the Oxford district. Not long after, Paul Dingle, the captain of our district rugby team, got wind that I had played for my school, Witney Grammar, and invited me to join the 7s squad for the 1968 tournament. The offer of a day off work was all the convincing I needed. Joining me in the Oxford district team was David Connolly, who is now the Chairman of the Oxford Pensioners' Club and was also working at Witney branch at the time.

In the first round, we were drawn against the Birmingham district team, and I was put on the wing. As we lined up for the kick-off, I realised that directly opposite me on the Birmingham team's wing was none other than David Duckham, who would later become an England international. According to David Connolly, we only lost that game 18-0, though I seem to recall that we did pretty well in The Plate – a consolation competition for teams knocked out in the first round.

Another interesting detail from that tournament was the inclusion of a guest team from British Linen Bank, which was an Associate Bank of Barclays. If my memory serves me correctly, one of their players was none other than former Prime Minister Gordon Brown.

Merfyn Williams – D-Day veteran

I received connection Issue 84 and particularly enjoyed the article on D-Day and Barclays. As the 80th Anniversary approached, one man was in my thoughts.

Back in 1967, I was transferred to Llandeilo branch where our Chief Clerk was John Arthur Merfyn Williams – affectionately known as Jammy. He was a lovely man but shocked me one day by being uncharacteristically irritable – he even threw a pen at me.

Our Manager J D Davies saw this and took me to one side to explain that Merfyn had been in the D-Day landings. He had a piece of his skull shot off by a German sniper and a metal plate had been inserted to cover the wound. When the weather was cold, the plate would contract and cause him to have terrible headaches.

Despite his struggles, Merfyn was very good to all his staff. I recall one occasion when he stormed into J D's office with my appraisal, which he was typing up for Head Office. He demanded that it was changed to reflect the hard work I had done, insisting the original report wasn't good enough.

In October 1970, as my wife Pam and I were expecting our first child, Merfyn told me to tell her to “hang on” as his son Derek was about to start at Glangwili Hospital, and he hoped Derek would be in charge of the birth. As it happened, Christopher didn't arrive until the 12th, and it was in fact Dr Derek who delivered him. Merfyn was delighted.

After his wife died, Merfyn moved to Ruislip to live with Derek. Every Christmas, his was always the first card to arrive. Merfyn has sadly passed away, but we still get a card every year from Derek and his wife.

The importance of customer account ledgers

A look back at some famous customer accounts from the Barclays Group Archives.

Barclays Group Archives fill a mile and a half of shelving in an unassuming building on an industrial estate in Manchester. A substantial proportion of this space is occupied by customer account ledgers, including a few for the accounts of some very famous names.

Three hundred years of history

Large, heavy and unwieldy, the ledgers were the bread and butter of banking for nearly 300 years. The ledgers are an insight into the former workings of Barclays, but they also tell a social history through the intimate details of the finances of thousands of customers.

Barclays has acquired many smaller banks over the years, and the majority of the ledgers belonging to the acquired banks have not survived. However, there are two significant collections remaining, those from Goslings and Sharpe of Fleet Street, and those from Parsons, Thomson and Company of Oxford.

Goslings and Sharpe's history can be traced back to 1650, and the Barclays Group Archives contain a remarkable 658 customer ledgers dating from 1717 through to 1896 when Goslings joined Barclays.

Parsons, Thomson and Company, also known as the Oxford Old Bank, was established in 1771. The 210 remaining customer ledgers held by Barclays Group Archives run from 1775 to 1901.

Detailed ledgers provide unique insights

The value of historic bank accounts was explained beautifully by Jenny Woolf in her book The Mystery of Lewis Carroll. Woolf spent some time in the Barclays Group Archives as part of her research into the famous author's life. She wrote:

"What I discovered, in a windowless book-lined room over several weeks, was a breakthrough. Here were hard, unaltered and previously unknown facts, the accounts shown exactly as they had been when the clerks closed their big leather-bound ledgers over a century before. No devoted members of Carroll's family had scrutinised this material. Nobody had had the chance to obliterate certain records of certain payments and insert others they thought more suitable. The fact that this material was utterly untouched made it unique as an important new source of Lewis Carroll information."

Ledgers of the rich and famous

Lewis Carroll (real name Charles Lutwidge Dodgson) (1832-1898)

Charles Lutwidge Dodgson wrote Alice's Adventures in Wonderland under the pseudonym, Lewis Carroll. He was a Lecturer in Mathematics at Christ Church, Oxford from 1855 to 1881, and also served as Curator of the Common Room for several years.

Dodgson's account with the Oxford Old Bank ran from 1856 to 1900 (two years after his death). The accounts show that Dodgson financially supported his siblings and their children throughout his life, supplemented his income with investments in railway shares, and subscribed to a large number of charities. They also show his earnings from his books, with regular deposits from his publisher, Macmillan, which seem to have been quite variable – as much as £1,340 in 1891, and £406 in 1897 (approximately £1.2 million and £361,300 respectively today). Costs associated with the books can also be seen – artist Sir John Tenniel received £138 for illustrations for Alice's Adventures in Wonderland, and £290 for Through the Looking Glass.

There are also payments for items like photographic equipment (Dodgson is known to have been a keen photographer) and to companies supplying other new-fangled inventions, such as a Stylographic reproducing pen, and a Singer Velociman tricycle. As Curator of the Common Room, Dodgson was responsible for buying large quantities of wine and spirits – purchases which he would make through his bank account, to be reimbursed at a later date.

Georgiana Cavendish, Duchess of Devonshire (1757-1806)

Georgiana Cavendish was an 18th century English socialite renowned in aristocratic circles for her beauty, wit, charm and style. The duchess was just 17 when she married William Cavendish, fifth Duke of Devonshire, in 1774. The union was to prove an unhappy one, but Georgiana became a leading light in English society.

The duchess, who counted Marie Antoinette and the Prince of Wales among her friends, led a fascinating, complicated and ultimately tragic life. One of the most talked about women in England, her sense of style sparked myriads of fashion crazes – including one-yard-tall hair towers full of artificial birds and fruit.

However, it would be wrong to dismiss Georgiana merely as a profligate socialite; she was a woman who was not afraid to challenge the conventions of her time. Unlike many women of her class, she was a devoted mother – choosing to breastfeed her children herself, rather than employing a wet-nurse. At a time when women were not expected to involve themselves in politics, she actively campaigned on behalf of the Whig party, both at social events and on the streets.

Georgiana's main bank account was with Coutts, but she also banked with Goslings and Sharpe, once for a mere six days in 1790 and again in 1795 until her death in 1806. It is possible that the duchess only opened the accounts to gain more credit, as she was continuously – and notoriously – in debt.

Entries from her accounts shed light on the duchess's spending, with one showing a payment of £600 on 14 October 1795 from her brother-in-law Lord Bessborough. Despite her husband's extreme wealth, Georgiana was known to ask friends and family for loans on a regular basis.

Georgiana tried extremely hard to keep her gambling debts hidden from her husband. It was only after her death, aged just 48, that the duke finally discovered the extent of what she owed – which was nearly £4,000,000 in today's terms. He apparently remarked, "Is that all?"

Georgiana Cavendish

Oscar Wilde (1854-1900)

Oscar Wilde appears in the ledgers of the Oxford Old Bank from February 1875 to June 1883. Wilde studied Literae Humaniores, a course combining classics and ancient philosophy, at Magdalen College, Oxford, from 1874 to 1878. A novelist, playwright, and poet, some of his most famous works include The Importance of Being Earnest, The Picture of Dorian Grey and An Ideal Husband.

Although Wilde left Oxford on graduation in 1878, he kept his account with the Old Bank for several years. A pencil note in the ledger for late 1880 gives an address of 5 Little St. James Street, Pall Mall (a block of flats immediately behind St. James's Palace) – an address that does not seem to be mentioned in published books on Wilde.

Activity in the account reflects Wilde's time at Oxford, with minimal entries during the summer holidays, plus an additional gap in April 1877 when he was 'sent down' (suspended from the College) for failing to turn up at the start of term.

In February 1875, Wilde paid £9 6s 8d to Spiers, an emporium on Oxford High Street where he is known to have purchased china, ornaments, a decanter, playing cards, drinking glasses, coffee cups, and a breakfast service. Another Oxford High Street tradesman to feature is the tailor, Muir.

One of the frequent payments from 1877 onwards is to St. Stephen's Club, a London club opened in 1870, and there are also payments to the 'Apollo', and to 'Churchill Lodge' which seem to have been for subscriptions to Masonic lodges in Oxford. Further Masonic connections can be seen in payments to an Oxford jeweller, Osmond, some of which are known to have been for Masonic regalia.

Other payments from Wilde's account are for 'music' and to the renowned Oxford hostelry, The Mitre. He also paid (or repaid?) money to various family members including his mother, Lady Wilde (1821-96), and his elder brother William.

Alan Hogg

Retired 1 January 2000, died 24 February 2024

Alan Hogg travelled widely but remained at heart a very proud Geordie. He joined Barclays in 1961 aged 17 in Newcastle, and after marrying Marjorie in 1970, they left the North East with their two children in 1979 so that he could become District Manager of Penzance. Promotions and further moves followed rapidly, to Tunbridge Wells as Manager, and then Local Director in Peterborough, Brighton and South East Regions.

In 1987, Alan was made Head of International Private Banking, based in Switzerland but with extensive operations in Asia and America. In 1992 he returned to the North East of England as Regional Director becoming also, to his great pleasure, Vice President of Newcastle United Football Club. One of his proudest achievements, outside family and work, was to help Kevin Keegan as Manager secure the transfer of Alan Shearer to the club at the then world record fee of £15 million in 1996. Alan completed his career returning again to the South East, this time as Regional Director.

Retirement allowed Alan to enjoy travelling with his family and in particular his passion for vintage MG sports cars. He was a notable collector and expert mechanic, and at one time had seven models in the garage, enabling regular trips with Marjorie to France with the international MG Car Club. They also enjoyed regular worldwide cruises in a very full and happy retirement.

The Barclays Bank UK Retirement Fund, Sunderland SR43 4JU

Please note our postal address has recently changed. Manage your Barclays UKRF pension at barclaysbankUKRF.co.uk

Register or log in to check your monthly pension payment, view your tax and P60 details, amend your address and view Trustee updates, reports and newsletters.

You can contact the Barclays Team at WTW by post, email or telephone with queries about your pension or to report any changes to your bank details. If you wish to change your address and are unable to do this via the website, you must send notification in writing, signed and dated, to WTW. You will need to confirm your old and new addresses and provide your date of birth, NI (National Insurance) number and payroll/employee ID number for identification purposes.

The helpline number operates from 9:00am to 5:00pm (UK time), Monday to Friday, with an out-of-hours message service. You can also use this number if you want to opt out of receiving connection magazine. When contacting the helpline, you will need to provide your date of birth, NI number and payroll/employee ID number for identification purposes.
